

#RETIREINEQUALITY

BLUEPRINTS TO BELIEVE IN: Driving Prosperity, Power and Progress in America.

We celebrate and honor Hispanic Heritage Month by continuing to pursue financial literacy for all Hispanic Americans.

Did you know? As the largest minority group in the U.S., Hispanic Americans play a crucial role in shaping the economic landscape of the United States, yet they face unique challenges in achieving financial security:

- Wealth Disparity: Hispanic households have notably lower median wealth compared to white households, with a median net worth of $20,700 compared to $171,000 for white households.¹
- Education Gap: while education is a key to financial success, Hispanic Americans are less likely to have a college degree, impacting their earning potential and access to higher-paying jobs.²
- Access to Financial Services: many Hispanic Americans are underserved by traditional banking institutions, leading to limited access to credit, savings and investment opportunities.³

During this Hispanic Heritage Month, join us in advocating for greater financial literacy and empowerment for all Hispanic Americans. Together, we can retire inequality and build a more equitable future for generations to come.

For more than 100 years, we have been committed to providing access and financial education to millions of Americans to build a more secure future for everyone. We aim to raise awareness of the need for all to be able to live freely and achieve their retirement dreams with conversations that uplift, educate and challenge preconceptions.

Discover how you can support financial education and retire inequality in the Hispanic community.

Success Stories

Lifelong journeys with enduring lessons.

Starting Points

Recommendations and resources to continue learning.

Fostering Dialogue

Opening and strengthening financial discussion.

See Retire Inequality: Blueprints to Believe In to learn more.

retireinequality.com/heritage